

Dangerous Dogs Fact Sheet – TAS

The Dog Control Act 2000(TAS) demands that all dog owners of declared dangerous dogs, and restricted dogs must comply with legislation requirements or face a court imposed fine for each offense.

Below are a few facts to act as a guide for a dog owner in TAS if they have a restricted dog breed or a declared dangerous dog.

What is a Dangerous Dog?

Any dog can be dangerous. The Act defines 3 types of dangerous dogs:

- Dangerous Dogs
- Restricted Breed Dogs

What Breeds are Restricted?

- dogo Argentino
- fila Brasileiro
- Japanese tosa
- American pit bull terrier
- Pit bull terrier
- Perro de Presa Canario

This includes banned breeds by the Customs Act 1901 of the Commonwealth and all dogs declared as restricted in other States. Your local council can assist.

Can I Breed my Pit Bull Terrier?

All restricted dog breeds and dangerous dogs are required to be sterilised. If you have a restricted breed dog, it is compulsory that you notify your local council.

How are Dogs Declared Dangerous?

Any breed of dog can be declared dangerous if they:

- Cause serious injury or damage by an attack on a person or animal.
- The dog has repeatedly or shown a tendency to attack.
- The dog attacks or chases a person, animal or vehicle even without causing injury or damage.

How do I Identify a Dangerous Dog?

The main identifier of a dangerous dog is the special collar that they are required to wear. These collars have red and yellow diagonal stripes where one of these colours must be fluorescent.

The width of the collar varies depending on the weight of the dog. Other than that, some of the requirements of an owner will also help identify a dangerous dog.
